

Reserve your seat today at

AFM911.org

presents

Listen Learn Lead

Suicide Intervention Training

SUICIDE CLAIMS MORE FIREFIGHTERS THAN LODDs

AFM 911 is the First Responder Division of Armed Forces Mission. The two-fold objective of AFM 911 is first, to reduce suicide in the First Responder community and secondly, train Responders in the skills of suicide intervention for the communities they serve. More than 16,000 individuals have taken L3 training to gain the skills that save lives. Clients served include Homeland Security, US ARMY, US AIR FORCE, hospitals, schools, universities and more than 5,000 First Responders.

L3 will be offered six times February 24, 25, and 26th

Morning Class is 0830-1200 Afternoon Class is 1330-1700

Location

Greenville Convention Center ~ 1 Exposition Drive, Greenville, SC 29607

Listen Learn Lead© (L3) is the primary curriculum in AFM's Intervene Challenge. AFM911 delivers the L3 model and the Intervene Challenge in a format to meet the unique needs of First Responders. Taught in a classroom setting.

L3 is a Real World intensive training with simulation exercises taught by Chaplain (LTC) Kenneth Lou Koon, the developer of L3. Lou has conducted more than 1,100 successful suicide interventions in military and civilian communities, and has a background in Fire Service.

“The Air Forces tells us we have to do something about suicide. Lou Koon shows us how.”

Col. Akashai Gandhi Commander 169th Fighter Wing McIntire Joint National Guard Base

I am reminded that every day with those that are hurting that even the strong grow weary. South Carolina is near and dear to my heart. It is the place where my 19 year old Airman son saved my life, when I had lost hope. I hope you will make plans to join us for this training!

Together we can turn the tide on suicide.

Hosted by

